She Quickly Smothered the Flames In His Hair and Clothing.

Small Panie Caused by a Fire in Chambers Street.

That D. H. McConnell, President o Union Publishing House, on the third floor of 126 Chambers street, was not burned to death or blinded and horhibly disfigured for life this morning is wholly due to the promptness and bravery of his young woman clerk, Miss Josie Sawyer, and L. J. Miles, who is also employed in the office.

As it is, Mr. McConnell was sent to the Hudson Street House of Relief, his hair and mustache badly singed, his hands fearfully blistered and his face

Miss Sawyer tore off her apron and threw it around Mr. McConneil's head, smothering the flames.

Mr. Miles, in the front office, had heard Miss Sawyer's cries, and rushed in at this juncture. He took the apron from the trembling girl's hands and smothered the remainder of the blaze.

At that time it was thought that the flames had not communicated to the woodwork, but some of the ignited alcohol had leaked through crevices in the floor, and the dibbers between the floor and the ceiling below were on fire.

C. E. McBride, another employee, rushed to the street and turned in an alarm, to which the firemen responded promptly.

After tearing up at least twenty square feet of flooring, the fire was put out.

The damage, it is estimated, will not be more than $500.

A number of girls in the employ of the Knox Bianket Manufacturing Company, on the floor above, hurried out of the building at the discovery of the fire.

FIRE IN THE OLD MARKET.

Wallabout, Brooklyn, Had a Lively Blaze To-Day.

Fire occurred shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon in the corner building of Wallabout Market, Washington and Flushing avenues, Brooklyn. The strong northwest wind blowing a gale of about forty miles an hour fanned the flames. The five buildings on the Flushing avenue block were destroyed, The flames shot across Flushing avenue to the lumber yard of Beers & Ressequil. Three alarms were turned in, and de-
